Multi-Professional Team Briefings

In this section, we are interested in your opinions about potential or real challenges and solutions to the implementation of multi-professional team briefings. In some hospitals, multi-professional team briefings are also known as "briefings" or "huddles". Please note they are distinct from the WHO team timeout.

What is a Multi-Professional Team Briefing? Multi-Professional Team Briefings are short meetings before the start of an operating list that take only a couple of minutes. The briefings include all professional groups working in operating theatres (i.e. surgeons, anaesthetists, nurses, and technicians), and are designed to share information such as the names and roles of staff members, provide a list and case overview, opportunity to ask questions, and summarise the day and any changes.

Thinking of your professional experience, what are some of the challenges you anticipate/experienced in conducting Multi-Professional Team Briefings?

Conversely, what are some of the solutions or drivers you anticipate/experienced that may support the implementation of this practice in theatre?
