

Supplemental Figure 1: Method for cleaning original data set containing 4458 surveys. The data set of 3597 surveys, containing all surveys throughout recovery of each concussion was used when determining difference in clinical care during recovery. When analyzing difference in days to symptom resolution and days to RTP completion, two different subsets of this data set were used, with 414 and 424 surveys used respectively for survival analysis and cox proportional hazards models.